

CHILDHOOD CANCERS

signs to look for

Repeating or constant fevers

Persisting headaches or dizziness

Pain, swelling, or a hard bump on the belly

Lump in child's neck, belly, chest, or armpit

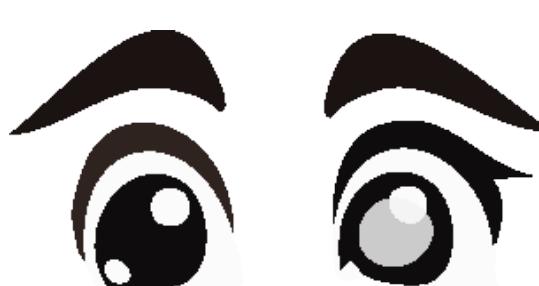

Persistent nausea or vomiting

Pale skin on hands, lips, gums, tongue, or nail beds

White spot in the eye, bulging eyeball, or new squint

Gum swelling, loose or crooked teeth; bone or joint swelling/pain

Feeling tired or weak

Vision, hearing, or speech problems

Unexplained weight loss

Easy bruising/bleeding or constant infections

Visit a doctor right away if you notice your child has any of these signs.

Childhood cancer may be treatable when caught early!
